IN CATHEDRAL

(By Latest Mail)
WINCHESTER, Eng. — The reparations to the exterior of Winchester Cathedral which were begun a few months ago have been successfully finished. The work was necessitated by the fact that, Bishop Fox, when rebuilding the east choir in the sixtesenth century used Caen stone, and the result has been the perishing of many of the details of the octagonal turrets, a damage which was accen-tuated by the mending of the turrets with hard Portland stone.

The work just accomcluded the cutting out of the whole of the decayed stone, and its replace-ment by Combe Down (Bath) stone. During the work it was discovered that the three-light window in the cen ter of the apex of the great gable, over the vaulting was part of a six-light window. This gives color to the idea that the east end of the choir, before the rebuilding in the sixteenth century, terminated in sevel eaves, with bles north and south.

The reparations have been carried out by Winchester builders and stone masons. The carvings are the work of E. Bradford, who is also engaged in the building of the new Portsmouth churches.

ITALIAN SCHOOL PREMISES LITTLE USED FOR RELIGION

[By Latest Pall] FLORENCE, Italy. — The que of religious instruction in schools and the attitude of parents towards it, varies no doubt with different places. It appears that in Rome, under the mayoralty of Ernesto Nathan, the question was sharply defined. Under his administration, permission was denied for religious instruction on chool premises, but some sort
